David Wolowitz is a director in the New Hampshire law firm of McLane, Graf, Raulerson & Middleton, Professional Association with over twenty-five years of experience litigating cases in a variety of state and federal courts in New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts. He is admitted to practice in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. He is a 1975 graduate of the University of Michigan Law School. He is the senior litigator in the firm's Portsmouth office. His practice is state-wide and extends into Massachusetts and Maine.

In his employment law practice, David represents employers on such diverse issues as wrongful discharge, sexual harassment, disabilities, non-competition and trade secrets. He also brings to his employment law practice, his substantial experience in the related areas of contract litigation, commercial litigation, workers compensation, personal injury and criminal law.

David has conducted numerous workshops and training sessions on a variety of risk management issues relating to employment law. He also has substantial experience with alternative dispute resolution including mediation and arbitration.

David is highly regarded by his peers for his litigation skills. For example, he has been repeatedly listed in Best Lawyers of America, in the category of "Labor and Employment Law." He is also listed in Best Lawyers Consumer Guide in the categories of workers compensation law and personal injury law. He is recognized also by clients for his defendant employment work in Chambers USA: America's Leading Business Lawyers. Since 1984, he has had the distinction of being invited by Harvard Law School to be a member of its Trial Advocacy Workshop, offered twice yearly. For the past two years, he has been invited to lecture at Harvard Medical School's annual Liability Prevention Workshop on the risks of technology to health care practitioners.

In 1999, David was appointed to the first panel of mediators for the United States District Court pilot project on mediation for the district of New Hampshire. In that role, and privately, he has successfully mediated a number of employment law cases. He is a member of the New Hampshire Bar Association and volunteers for the New Hampshire Lawyers' Assistance Committee to assist impaired attorneys. He is the past president of the Harvard Club of New Hampshire.
